

This opening line uses the ordinary document defaults.

This whole block is blue and italic, because the set rule lives inside the square brackets and applies only until they close.

And this closing line is back to the defaults – black and upright. The set rule never escaped its block.